The study of the English Bible is pursued with a view to securing intelligent familiarity with the history it contains, and with its characteristic teachings. Constant effort is made to have our students see that the Bible is the living word of the living God, and that its teachings and principles have to do with all the varied interests of our present time as truly as with the past. Manuals of Bible History and geography are used for illustrating and explaining the divine word; but to the text itself pecial attention is directed, to secure familiarity with its teachings.
