Trapped on the Titanic is a work of childrens historical fiction set in 2012, the 100th anniversary of the sinking of the Titanic. The thrilling, chilling story begins with Callie Elizabeth, an eighth grade girl with a normal life. At least her life was fairly normal until she finds herself alone and staring into the eyes of a weeping photograph that is over 100 years old. Who is the girl in the picture and why does she look so much like Callie Why does the phantasmic image of the girl keep appearing to Callie What does she want from her As Callie searches for answers about the girl in the photograph, she finds herself engulfed in family secrets, haunting visits, and espionage. What really happened that night of April 14 and the early morning of April 15, 1912 as the majestic Titanic sank to her watery grave How can Callie solve the mystery and put to rest the ghosts of her familys past With the help of a good friend, her grandmothers love for history and her own...
